

The first Italian Consortium for the recycling of textile waste with an authentically European scope

The new proposed amendment to the European Directive, “New Circular Economy Package”, extends the Extended Producer Responsibility Principle (EPR) to companies that produce and put on the market products such as: clothing, footwear, accessories, leather goods and home textiles.

These companies will have to take charge of financing, organizing collection, starting preparation for reuse, recycling and recovery of waste deriving from textile products.

What needs to be done to comply correctly?

Choose a Collective System that manages the collection and recycling of textile waste to transform it into new secondary raw material, creating a sustainable and concrete circular economy also in the fashion sector.

Our project is an innovative EPR idea which aims to support Producers and all companies involved in the management of compliance obligations with environmental legislation, both in Italy and abroad.

OUR ADVANTAGES

- International knowledge of EPR regulations in all countries where legislation exists in this market;
- A single international referent to simplify the complexity of compliance management;
- An Italian project within a global context;
- Expert partners and certified operators;
- Research and development projects to support Producers and other parties involved;
- Management of pre- and post-consumption with a view to reuse.

Who is the Producer?

- the natural or legal person established in Italy who, on a professional basis, on his own behalf or through third parties, alternatively manufactures or places a product on the national market by affixing his own name or company name or registered trademark; the person responsible for placing it on the market is not considered a producer if the product also bears the name or company name or registered trademark of the manufacturer;
- the natural or legal person established in Italy who, on a professional basis, imports or first places on the national market products manufactured by natural or legal persons not established in Italy;
- the natural or legal person not established in Italy who, in a professional capacity, places products on the national market using remote communication techniques directly to the consumer or end user.
